Phoenix Children's Warns of Fraudulent Door-to-Door Solicitations Claiming to Support Hospital

PHOENIX, Ariz. (June 22, 2007) – The Phoenix Children's Hospital Foundation is warning Valley residents to be aware of fundraising scams claiming to benefit the Hospital. Today, Phoenix Children's received phone calls from concerned residents – specifically in Glendale – regarding door-to-door sales of coupon books alleging to raise funds for the Hospital.

Scam victims describe the bogus solicitor as a male in his late 30s with dark hair. The man is wearing blue green scrubs and a name badge.

Steve Schnall, vice president of the Phoenix Children's Hospital Foundation, reminds Valley residents that Phoenix Children's never solicits door-to-door.

Concerned residents are invited to contact the Hospital's Foundation at (602) 546-GIVE (4483) to verify Phoenix Children's fundraising programs before making a donation. Anyone interested in supporting Phoenix Children's can donate directly to the Hospital through the secure "Donate Now" webpage at www.phoenixchildrens.com.

The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) provides additional tips to prevent becoming a victim of fundraising scams:

- Ask fundraisers to identify themselves and name the organization for which they are raising funds.
- Ask how your contributions will be used. The FTC suggests getting written information.
- Call the organization to verify a fundraiser's claim to be collecting on that organization's behalf. If the claim cannot be verified, the FTC recommends reporting the solicitation to local law enforcement officials.
- Ask if your contribution is tax-deductible. Make your check payable to the official name of the group or charity. Avoid cash gifts.
- Be suspicious of fundraisers suggesting you'll receive special treatment in return for your donation.
- Don't feel intimidated about declining to give. The FTC says fundraisers who use intimidation tactics are likely to be scam artists. Report the interaction to local law enforcement officials.

More information about fraud-related fundraising is accessible through the FTC website, www.ftc.org.
